

ONE PAGE AT A TIME

I hold a blank page before my eyes,
Its empty lines waiting for words to arise.
So many words are waiting to be written,
Yet some parts of the story stay hidden.

I wish I could read the pages still ahead,
To know each word before it has been said.
But You remind me I don't need to know,
I only need to trust the way You show.

For I can see only the page in my hand,
While You can see the story as You planned.
So I will write each line with faith and grace,
And trust Your hand to guide me through this place.

The final page may still be far from view,
But every step I take, I give to You.
And when the story reaches its last line,
May every word reflect Your love divine.
