

The Heart

Mime Solo – Asivorosi Wakanivesi

(Man living in sin, hears the call of salvation)

Wakes up from a curled position. Rubbing his eyes, he looks around to get a sense of the world. Notices all the wonders of creation, and then notices the audience, and waves at them.

Then feels a stab in the heart. Feels around his heart and notices that there is a hole, as he shapes it out. Tries to cover hole but can't, realizes he needs to fill the heart with something.

First tries relationships doing good to see if that works, by shaping hearts out and giving them away, and asking people to give him love too. However finds the heart is still empty, but now is also broken.

Next tries reading books, expanding in knowledge and understanding and uses reason the feeling of the empty heart away. This too turns out to be unfruitful and feeling despair drops to the floor in misery.

Lastly tries to numb the pain with smoking, alcohol, and drugs. He coughs at smoking, gets disgusted with the alcohol, and finds the drugs are useless.

While in deep despair, he hears a voice from above. Looking up he hears God tell him to give him his heart all broken and in pieces. So he reaches deep within and gives his broken heart to God. Then he receives from God a fresh, new beating heart. Once placed in him, he becomes alive again.

Truly happy, and excited, he thanks God. Facing the audience he tells them that God is only one who can fill the hole in our hearts. Nothing else will be able to fill it, not relationships, reason and thinking, or numbing the feeling with substances. He encourages them to give their lives to God, and not only will He fill the hole in their heart, He will give them a new heart.

Bows.
