

Patience of the Heart

Author: anonymous

Patience is quiet, yet strong as stone,
A grace that helps us stand alone.
It waits through storms, it holds through pain,
And trusts that joy will come again.

Like seeds beneath the winter ground,
Though none can see, life still is found.
God works in ways we cannot trace,
Still shaping all with love and grace.

When answers seem so far away,
And shadows dim the brightest day,
Patience whispers, "Do not fear,
The Lord is faithful, He is near."

It does not rush, it does not break,
It walks each step for heaven's sake.
For those who trust and choose to stay,
Will see God's light reveal the way.

So teach my heart, O Lord above,
To wait in faith and rest in love.
For in Your time, so wise, so true,
The best of blessings still break through.
