

In His Light

I walk in the dark,
no destination or purpose.
But then I see a spark,
His light's presence makes me nervous.

When I feel His warm arms,
The darkness no longer surrounds me.
I feel sheltered from life's harms.
In Your light I can finally see.

You called me by my name,
And I'll never be the same.
Though the darkness still calls,
I am not afraid at all.
