[SCENE START]

(Eli is searching around, acting hungry. Ray enters.)

Eli: Oh, I am absolutely starving! I haven't had a decent snack since... well, breakfast. But that was hours ago!

Ray: Squawk! You think you're hungry? Try being a raven!

Eli: Ray! Oh, good, you're here. Did you bring me my lunch? You know, like in that Bible story?

Ray: Which one? The one where you don't eat?

Eli: No! The one where God sent you to feed Elijah! You were supposed to bring bread and meat!

Ray: Squawk! Well, I was going to... but I got a little distracted.

Eli: Distracted?! Ray, Elijah was waiting by the brook! He was hungry!

Ray: Okay, okay. So I'm flying along, right? I've got this lovely piece of bread. And then I think... "Hmm, I wonder if this bread is gluten-free?"

Eli: Gluten-free?! Ray, it's a Bible story! They didn't have gluten-free bread!

Ray: Well, I didn't know that! Anyway, I dropped it. Squawk!

Eli: You dropped it? What about the meat?

Ray: Squawk! Well, I was carrying it, and it was a bit heavy. So, I decided to take a little bite just to make it lighter.

Eli: Sighs. A bite?

Ray: Yeah. And then I thought, "This is really good meat." So I took another bite. And then... squawk... a small, tiny, little... squawk... mouthful.

Eli: Ray! You ate Elijah's lunch!

Ray: Squawk! God provides, right? Maybe he was supposed to provide for me first!

Eli: Pouts. I still think you just wanted a free meal.

Ray: Squawk! Look, I'll go get more. I just need you to hold my feathers while I fly... I'm feeling a little... light-headed. Squawk!

Eli: To the audience. Maybe we should have asked for a dove instead.
