

Title: “Faith Bigger Than Fear”

Characters:

- Josh- Maloney Lalavanua (Boy puppet – energetic, slightly dramatic)
- Mia- Nazarene Teanganaki (Girl puppet – thoughtful, steady, encouraging)

Theme: Trusting God when you’re nervous (David and Goliath reference)

Setting: School playground / after school

Script

Josh: (Pacing) Nope. No way. Not happening.

Mia: What’s not happening?

Josh: The presentation tomorrow. In front of the whole class. That’s what.

Mia: Ohhh, the history one?

Josh: Yes! Thirty students. One me. It’s basically David and Goliath... except I’m just David. And there are like thirty Goliaths.

Mia: (Smiling) That’s not quite how the story goes.

Josh: I know, I know. David won. But he was brave! I can’t even read out loud without my voice doing that weird squeaky thing.

Mia: The “surprise mouse” voice?

Josh: Yes! Exactly! It betrays me.

Mia: Josh, remember why David was brave?

Josh: Because he had a slingshot?

Mia: Not just that. He trusted God. He said, “The Lord who rescued me before will rescue me again.”

Josh: Yeah... but David fought a giant. I’m fighting... PowerPoint slides.

Mia: Fear is fear. It still feels big.

Josh: (Sits down) What if I mess up? What if everyone laughs?

Mia: What if you do great? What if God helps you?

Josh: What if I faint dramatically?

Mia: Then I'll catch you dramatically.

(They laugh.)

Mia: Seriously though. Being brave doesn't mean you're not scared. It means you trust God more than your fear.

Josh: So... faith bigger than fear?

Mia: Exactly.

Josh: But how do I do that?

Mia: Pray. Remember times God helped you before. And take one step forward anyway.

Josh: One step forward... even if my knees are shaking?

Mia: Especially then.

Josh: (Thinking) Well... God helped me in the football finals when I was nervous.

Mia: See?

Josh: And in the maths test. I thought I'd fail, but I didn't.

Mia: Double see.

Josh: So if God helped me then... He can help me tomorrow.

Mia: That's faith.

Josh: (Stands up straighter) Okay. Maybe my class isn't thirty Goliaths.

Mia: Definitely not.

Josh: And even if it feels big... God is bigger.

Mia: Now you're talking.

Josh: Will you pray with me?

Mia: Of course.

(Both bow heads slightly.)

Josh: Um... God, I'm really nervous. Please help me be brave tomorrow.

Mia: And remind Josh that You're with him, just like You were with David.

Josh: Amen.

Mia: Amen.

(Josh stands confidently.)

Josh: You know what? I'm still nervous...

Mia: That's okay.

Josh: But I'm going to do it anyway.

Mia: That's courage.

Josh: Faith bigger than fear.

Mia: Every time.

(Both turn to audience.)

Josh: If you've got something scary this week—

Mia: Remember, you're not facing it alone.

Both: God is bigger!

(Wave.)
