

I Was On Your Mind

I was on your mind before the foundations of the world were there,

You knew me in my mother's womb,

You knew the count of all my hair,

I'm created in your image,

You call me by my name,

I'm born into this world that has gone completely insane.

I'm created for a purpose,

to proclaim your holy name

far and wide,

You know my every thought and my heart inside,

You long to hold me,

your arms are opened wide,

Many times I think of you,

this is why you died.

I was on your mind when they led you to that place,

How they beat you and spat upon you,

blood ran down your face,

They mocked you and bowed their knee to an imaginary king,

If only they would have known you were the creator of everything,

You chose to lay it down.

They had placed the thorns upon your head of your imaginary crown.

They led you up that hill to hang upon the cross,

You counted it a gain,

You were never at a loss.

Willingly you went the angels awaiting your command,

They wanted to deliver you,

This was not in your plan.
Our creator had come to suffer
And die a gruesome way,
Only to rise upon that third and final day.

I was on your mind a glorious victory you brought to me,
When I was at my lowest,
And I could not even see.
I was on your mind to walk with you today,
I was on your mind when there was no other way.
I was on your mind.

Jason Kirk Bartley