

My name is Jasper Whitlock and I'm the prince of Emberfall Kingdom. I have brown, curly hair and I have green and blue eyes. I use armor and a shield. My mom has tragically died and I only live with my dad, Clause Whitlock, and sister, Jennifer Whitlock. My friends from 2 other palaces, Harriet Silverwood and Sparrow Riverstone. We fought mighty beasts together. Then one day, 3 mighty enemies from far away came to invade the Emberfall Kingdom. Me, Harriet, and Sparrow ran to the kingdom of Emberfall.

"Who are you!?" I shouted as hard as I could to get their attention.

"Oh, do you not know who I am?" he grinned, "We are the mighty Shadow Council! Let me introduce myself. I am Scythe, this is Vanjealous, and Thorn."

"Hi. Okay thanks for the introduction, alas... we have to kill you because you're destroying Emberfall!" I replied.

"Of course, EVERYONE is trying to protect their puny kingdoms, but we ALSO have to kill you so if u mind, I might as well kill everyone in this kingdom," Scythe said grimly.

"Try, if you can," I grinned.

Scythe lunged at me with his spear.

As I dodged, I teased, "Is that all you got?"

Scythe grumbled as we continued to fight. He struck my gut and I fell, wounded. Scythe, Vanjealous, and Thorn grinned, but through the grin, I could see that Thorn wasn't happy with my injury. I had no choice but to retreat.

"I have to... OW! – help my friends," I groaned as I tried to get up. The pain felt like a trident slicing me for dinner.

Harriet said gently, "Jasper, you need to rest. You have 3 broken ribs."

"No, can-ah!- help I can't leave you fighting alone, Harriet," I said, as Harriet tucked me to bed.

"Jasper, don't worry about me. I got Sparrow. And besides, if you fight, you're gonna have six or eight broken ribs. So face it. It's two against one," she smiled as she turned the lights off, "Bye, Jasper, goodnight..."

"Harriet, can you tell me a bedtime story?" I begged. I didn't want to be alone.

"Ja... fine, one bedtime story. Jasper, you're like 17- but okay. A story about Ananias, from the Bible," she sat down, "Once upon a time lived a guy named Ananias. His life was pretty good... until one day God told him to cure Saul, a Jewish hater. Ananias didn't wanna do it because it was scary, being a Jew, having to heal a man who doesn't like Jews. That's a problem. But God protected him. He was scared, but with God, he overcame his fear. And now, Saul is called Paul.. the end!" Harriet ended the story as both Sparrow and I fell asleep.

The next thing I remembered was Harriet calling for us, "Sparrow, Jasper wake up! The enemy is here!"

"What?! Where?!" Sparrow and I shouted, half awake.

The three of us got ready and we fought. This time, Sparrow and I managed to stab Scythe and Thorn! But Vanjealous stabbed Harriet with a poisonous dagger and she fell to the ground without any of us noticing.

"Now ALL IS MINE, YOU MAY HAVE DEFEATED MY FRIENDS AND KILLED THEM -i didn't like them anyway, they were very bossy- BUT YOU SHALL NEVER DEFEAT ME!! MUAHAHAHAHAH-" Vanjealous said, laughing.

Angry, I struck him with his own poisonous dagger that fell on the ground, "You-you shall never ever go here again!" I cried as Scythe and Thorn retreated, injured and wounded badly.

"Harriet, why?" I cried when I reached Harriet's body.

"Jasper, I love you, but now... remember this: if you're scared and all, you know who to trust. God... he will make you feel better and he understands you so you wi..." she coughed, "...will feel better. Now must leave this earth and go somewhere that you will see in a very, long time. Bye Jasper. Bye Sparrow... promise on the River Styx that you will protect Jasper," Harriet smiled.

"I-I promise on the River Styx, I will protect Jasper like a brother. Bye, my friend. See you in the after life," Sparrow promised.

I felt deep sorrow that day.

"Jasper, come on! Scythe, came to Emberfall! We have to protect the kingdom!" Sparrow called out.

"What is it for anyway? Harriet died and-"

"Harriet told me to protect you I promised and I won't fail you, and I won't die, don't worry. And Harriet is happy in the afterlife, she will always be there for you no matter what even when you don't see her," Sparrow said gently.

"Just-just let me pray to God for a moment.." I sighed.

"Okay, be quick. I need you Jas," Sparrow said as he left the room.

"Hey, God, if you can hear me right now... you know I'm struggling and could use some help. It's been like 3 years since Harriet died and... I'm feeling lonely and maybe you could help me? Amen," I finished. "Okay, let's help Sparrow," I said to myself.

"J-Jasper!!!" Sparrow called from outside.

"I'm coming!" I called out to him, "You'll never be able to de-"

stabs Scythe

"Uh-uh" I grinned as Sparrow and I slayed both Scythe and Thorn.

"Sorry Thorn" I whispered. Then I got a graze and fell.

"Jasper! Help!" Sparrow yelled as he got tugged by the string.

"Sparrow?" I turned and saw Sparrow getting pulled by a string to a pit where if you broke your promise you would be sent there and get stuck in there until you die.

"I'm sorry I couldn't protect you, Jasper. I'm sorry."

"Sparrow! You didn't do anything wrong though!" I cried, "I can't lose you too!"

I reached my hand but it was too late. Sparrow was gone.

I felt deep sorrow, like an arrow had shot through my heart, "Why Lord? Why have you forsaken me?" I cried out.

Then a booming, loud voice shook the ground, "JASPER, I HAVEN'T FORSAKEN YOU. TRUST IN ME AND IT SHALL COME TO PASS."

Then the voice faded and the ground went back to normal. But then everything went dark...

"Harriet? Sparrow?" I called.

"Hi Jasper!" called a voice.

"Who are you?!" I asked, my heart pounding.

"Don't you remember my voice, Jasper?" asked the voice.

"Harriet? Is it really you?" I asked.

"Yes, Jasper it is me," Harriet answered.

"Am I dead?" I asked.

"Unfortunately for you, yes... you are dead. You were too stressed out and God said that it was hurting your life and soul, so He brought you here with me," Harriet replied.

"Oh. Thank you, Lord. He has answered my prayers to be with you here eternally," I said as I smiled and walked away with Harriet.

THE END

EXPLANATION:

Maybe life is hard right now, and you wish that it can be your way. But The Lord always has a plan for you and it's gonna always be better than your plans. Sometimes it doesn't go well or the way you want it to be. But just to remind you that God has a plan better for you so you can trust in God. It may be painful and sad but you can always trust in God to make you feel better and safer .