I got this image composition from my brain. I may have been influenced by stained glass windows I have seen on TV, but no particular image comes to mind.

List the materials and tools used in completing your project:

paper, HB pencil, eraser, ruler, colored pencils,

Describe the step-by-step procedures used to complete your project:

1. I drew the outline of the window and the cross.
2. I drew all the lines for the stained glass.
3. I colored in all the pieces of glass.
4. I outlined the cross and window in black
5. I signed my name.

Artwork Description:
I think that many people think of the cross and the crucifixion as a sad event, and the empty tomb as hopeful, cheerful, and promising. This is true to a degree, but the cross should actually be a sight that gives us joy, and makes us feel inspired, loved and accepted. Jesus was crucified so we could be saved from the punishment of sin and have eternal life with Him. Consequently, I do not think He would want us to be melancholy and depressed over the greatest sacrifice anyone ever made in the course of all history. Not only did Jesus suffer all the agonizing pain of His crucifixion, He suffered the contempt of those He had come to save, the rejection of His heavenly Father, and the weight of the sin of all humanity, not just those who were in front of Him buying for His blood, not even just those alive at that time, but everyone who ever lived, and everyone who would ever live. All these facts compounded leads me to believe that Jesus would want us to think of His crucifixion in such a way that expresses how grateful and overjoyed we are that He made it possible for us to spend an eternity with Him. Hence I made my stained glass window as colorful as possible to attempt to portray how I feel, and how I believe we should feel on this topic. Because Jesus didn't stay dead.
