

The light that you lead

Your words guide me through each path

Soothing between the darkness

Leading into the lightness

Where weary heart begin to sing

Your faithful hands will never leave

You lift my soul through every step

For the gracious and merciful one

I stand with all my strength for the light of you

Reaching for the dawn you promised

Searching for the peace you bring

When fear whispers through the wave of winds

Your gentle voice teaches my heart to sing

Though storms may rise and shadows fall

Your endless love remains my guide

With steadfast faith, I walk forward

For the everlasting light, that will never die
